“country’s newest rising star...this could easily become the summer tune for the year”
Music Matters Magazine

Country singer and songwriter, Cole Bradley, is an up and coming contender in the North American music scene. Growing up listening to the likes of Kenny Chesney, Garth Brooks and Tim McGraw, Bradley first graced the stage at the young age of five. Since then, Cole has fostered a passion for performing and sharing his music with others. “As an artist, it is important for me to share my feelings through the songs. When people listen to my music, my hope is that they connect and relate to my stories,” says Bradley.

Much like Bradley himself, his songs are upbeat, positive and full of life. He is a natural entertainer with an infectious energy. His unique vocals and his edgy country sound, make his music fresh and original. Whether he is belting out a rowdy party anthem or a heartfelt ballad, he is able to captivate fans of all ages with his sense of humor, warmth and honest songwriting.

Country was the soundtrack to childhood summers spent on the lake where Bradley could be found wake surfing, water-skiing or just hanging out with friends and family. Though Cole Bradley is country at heart, like many millennials, his listening palette is wide, and you will hear a pop/rock influences and modern production in his music. Bradley has shared the stage with various country stars including Thomas Rhett, High Valley and Lanco.
